(From '99 report). A fine trip - too readily dismissed as a novice trip, although it's a shame there's not a further 100m of cave like this. Take a camera!

Entrance pitch: choose your hang! Back off rope to trees and descend scruffy ledge to Y hang. A short, greasy descent picks up a further Spit for a rebelay. From the bottom of the pitch the way on is a 3m climb up into a horizontal passage. This climb usually has tat in place. Follow the passage to the P37.

P37 (second pitch): Back off rope to substantial thread and further Spit followed by a high Y hang over the pitch. A deviation 2m down will provide a free hang in this magnificent shaft.

P12: Back off rope to obvious thread. A high Y hang is followed by a deviation some 3m down off the opposite wall. Alternatively, a high traverse can be followed using 3 Spits for a clear rig to the bottom of both P12 and P2.

R2: A scruffy climb to the start of P10. (The rope for P12 can be anchored at the top of P2 and used as a handline).

P10: A poorly protected traverse (use a sling from an obvious flake half way along) to a Y hang across the shaft. Use a sling from the obvious natural part way down the pitch for a deviation.

P12: A short section of horizontal passage leads to P12. A Y hang is rigged from either side of an obvious flake, followed by a deviation from a Spit some metres down. R2 does not require a rope.

Equipment:

Entrance pitch: 35m rope, 3 hangers and a sling.

3m climb: Take a 5m rope in case it's not rigged. P37: 52m rope, 4 hangers and a sling. P12 and R2: 20m rope, 4 hangers and 2 slings. P10 and P12: 45m rope, 7 hangers and 3 slings.
